

You are cordially invited to

Cariten Senior Health's PETscription for Wellness

A free expo especially for older adults who are pet owners, pet lovers or interested in pet adoption.

Saturday, August 18, 2007 ♦ 9 a.m. to Noon

Knoxville I-75 Expo Center off Clinton Highway

It's no secret that pets make great companions, but having a pet has health benefits, too. Pet owners often have lower blood pressure, less stress and a higher quality of life.

That's why Cariten Senior Health is partnering with Young-Williams Animal Center, the Knox County Office on Aging and the University of Tennessee College of Veterinary Medicine to sponsor this special half-day event featuring guest lectures, health screenings and information booths.

Learn about

- Pet medical and chiropractic care
- Pet training and boarding
- Pet grooming
- Pet products

Free health screenings for older adults

- Depression
- Vision
- Blood pressure
- Grip strength

Hear from the experts

- Volunteering with your pet
- Proven health benefits of having a pet
- End-of-life issues/pet loss
- Choosing the "right" pet
- Maintaining a pet's teeth, nails and weight

Pet adoption options
